

A detailed still life painting featuring a bouquet of flowers. In the foreground, there are several large, vibrant yellow flowers with five petals, possibly Mimulus aurantiacus. To their left, there are several large, pinkish-purple flowers with ruffled petals, likely peonies. The flowers are set against a dark, textured background. The entire arrangement rests on a light-colored wooden surface. The lighting is soft, highlighting the textures of the petals and leaves. The overall style is reminiscent of 19th-century still life painting.
